SAVING QURAT-UL-AIN'S LIFE

11-days old Qurat-ul-Ain was rushed to ChildLife's ER in PIMS, Islamabad, with complaint of severe jaundice.

Her father Shafiq-ur-Rehman said, "I took Qurat-ul-Ain to a local GP before, but her condition did not improve."

Shafiq brought her to the ER in PIMS, where he learned it was newly upgraded by ChildLife. She was admitted and finally started showing signs of improvement with phototherapy and drips.

Grateful for the expert treatment that saved Qurat-ul-Ain's life, Shafiq said, "I hope this organization expands across Pakistan so more children like my daughter can survive and have a future."
